WOMEN'S FEATURES — TV COMMENTARY
By John Smiley
IT IS a kindergarten rule that one should not speak when another is talking. Some networks have chosen to neglect this rule of politeness of late and have rudely interrupted regular programming every time Hank Aaron slams another homer into the stands.
SURELY viewers are interested in sports history and in the breaking of Babe Ruth's record of home runs. Hank Aaron is an outstanding baseball player and a favorite of many.
HOWEVER, it is as irritating as baby rash to have a favorite program interrupted, mid-plot, in order to show a re-run of a recent homer batted by Mr. Aaron. Could not the re-run be re-run at a more appropriate, well-mannered time? This writer appreciates network sports editor's enthusiasm in getting the scenes on the air, but their timing has been as poor as their fervor has been excellent.
PBS is planning a program designed to explore the mythology of old age, to be aired October 29. The program will focus on the problems of aging Americans in both a humorous and a serious way. Sketches and musical segments will be included.
JACKIE GLEASON is taping a special to be aired on October 11. It will revive the Honeymooners and some of those familiar Gleason characters. Gleason's contract with CBS will soon expire. NBC, not waiting for the final divorce, is courting Gleason heavily already.
